

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Emma Goldman is coming back to the U. S. A.

The famous Russian anarchist, deported in 1919 with Alexander Berkman, for obstructing the draft went to Finland and then into Soviet Russia. She was not a Communist. As an anarchist she believed in doing away with governments instead of heavy governmental regimentation. She left Russia in 1923, denouncing the Communists, and expressed a wish to return to the United States. She often spoke of the Declaration of Independence as a fine anarchist document.

Since 1924, she has made her headquarters in London and has travelled a great deal about Europe. She made one visit to Canada.

Roger Baldwin head of the Civil Liberties Union, took up her case in Washington and those guiding the New Deal expressed no objection to her return. The trend to the left today has been so fast that the speeches with which Emma Goldman used to electrify audiences in opposing the draft and in picturing the plight of people crushed by the economic system now would sound just "liberal." And Emma Goldman herself has become older and more placid.

So permission has been given her to come back.

NO CHANGE

The visit of four "Sound Money Men" at the White House last week has calmed a lot of conservative fears about inflation. J. P. Morgan, Al Smith, Barney Baruch, Myron Taylor are supposed to have planted some ideas in F. D. R.'s mind about a return to the old monetary system.

This, however, was not the case. Whatever may have been said to Roosevelt by these four gentlemen—and White House attaches say it was almost nothing—they had no effect whatever. For better or worse Roosevelt's monetary experimentation will continue. Also his other recovery policies.

The President's recent swinging left and to his close friends has shown not the slightest inclination of blowing up. Recently he has been more emphatic than ever that the banks and big business are not going to block the road to recovery. F. D. R. has a picture.

Two Girls On World Journey Stopped Here

Three Fort Bragg girls, names withheld by police, left home on Monday, enroute for Arizona and the world. Monday evening one of the girls decided to return home, the other two continued on their way, hitch-hiking.

In Richmond yesterday they stopped for a "rest" that eventually proved to be the end of their "world tour." For the fathers of the girls had notified Richmond police.

Inspector George Bengley found the two at a local rooming house and removed them to the city jail where they are being held until their parents "claim" them today.

In their diary, the girls tell of the experiences they encountered while enroute to Arizona and the world.

One of the girls is a former resident of Richmond.

HUSBAND HUNTED IN MURDER CASE

LOCAL BODY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

RELATIVES ARE HELD IN WIFE DEATH

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—UP—Earle Wynekoop, husband of the slain Rheta Wynekoop was ordered arrested tonight by Police Captain John Stegg.

The police captain said he had been informed that the husband had been reported seen in Chicago a few hours before his wife's body was found unclothed on the operation table on the Wynekoop home.

The Kansas City police were searching for the young man and had orders to arrest him.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—UP—A bullet which ploughed into the heart of Rheta Wynekoop as she lay almost nude on her mother-in-law's operating table gave the city as bizarre a mystery tonight as any that ever sprang from a novelist's brain.

Who fired the gun that ended the life of the beautiful young woman was a question that baffled police as they wove their way through the gloomy west side mansion where the tragedy occurred.

One of the outstanding developments of the day was discovery that the life of the young woman, member of a prominent Indianapolis family, recently had been insured for $5000.

Outstanding in the theories advanced as to how she was slain by a single bullet that entered her back and pierced her heart was the belief of Capt. John Stegg, a detective, that she was killed while under an anaesthetic.

Her body, carefully almost tenderly tucked in a blanket, was found by her 62 year old mother-in-law, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, former university instructor and member of a family of medical men and women who have been prominent in Chicago for generations.

Dr. Wynekoop, a dignified, slender, gray haired woman, and six

3,000 S. P. MEN VOTE TO CALL STRIKE

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 22.—UP—A strike of 3000 Southern Pacific Railroad employees of the Texas and Louisiana division was called for noon Saturday by officials of four associated brotherhoods of employees here late today.

The strike was called after tallying of ballots in a vote among employees of the road.

Only overtures by the railroad toward arbitration of the 108 grievances listed on the strike ballot, or intervention by President Roosevelt, could avert the strike, union leaders predicted.

The railroad, however, apparently was determined to meet strike conditions with labor recruited through a three day advertising campaign in newspapers. Officials of the road announced scores of applications had been received as a result of the campaign.

The brotherhoods in the strike are the Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Principal points at issue between the road and employees are the railroad's proposals to extend mileage of train crew service between various points in Texas and Louisiana and the proposed elimination of several junctions where through freight train crews change.

Wages and number of employees according to the railroad, are not involved.

Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, first vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce, painted a bright picture of improving conditions in all parts of California as a result of the stimulation provided by the public works money of the Federal government.

P. M. Sanford, president of the Chamber, acting as chairman, gave a resume of the activities of the committee of the Chamber during the year just past and lauded the committee workers for the time and effort they have given during the last twelve months.

Tonight the Kennel Club presents three stand-out events, a Redwood Handicap, a special 8-dog match race between Sylvia's King, Happy Lad, Grady Boy and the other familiar topnotchers, and a classy hurdle event. Tom Loughran
Is Winner Of 10 Round Bout

NEW YORK (Thursday) Nov. 23.—UP—Tommy Loughran, veteran boxing master tonight, punched the championship balloon of another strapping fighter by coming back to win a ten round decision over the American giant, Ray Impellitteri.

Six thousand fans shook the Coliseum's steel girders at the announcement that the Quaker town phantom had won the unanimous decision. Just as he had done against the other big fellows—Campolo, Schaaf and Gross.

The bout was stopped in the sixth round when the huge boxer landed a crashing right uppercut that split Loughran's lower lip and sent the blood streaming down his chest.

Referee Pete Hartley halted the bout and it seemed momentarily a technical knockout had been won, but Brig. General John D. Phelan, chairman of the boxing commission, ordered the fight to be continued.

Meanwhile, Loughran had recovered from the smash that almost knocked him out.

les, and one defeat. . . The only team to make more first downs than the Irish in their first six games was Pittsburgh.

Quarterback Dazed

Cotton Warburton, Southern California quarterback, whose 60-yard run in the fourth period enabled the Trojans to defeat California, 6-3, was dazed from a tackle he made in the first half, and started taking his shoes off between halves, thinking the game was over, and that California had won. . . The Southern California equipment man found him in a corner with a blanket over his head, and semi-conscious. . . he got him out on the bench, his head cleared, and he went in for the fourth period to score the winning touchdown. . . his head was hurt again after the touchdown and he had to be taken out of the game for good.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver discharge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantaxin. . . It thoroughly cleanses the digestive system of all food accumulations and gives the liver a proper working order. . . When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, malodorous breath, constipation, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantaxin is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants. . . Nature's own remedy—that acts in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the organs. . . Try it tonight. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

The entry of the Johnson Clothiers into the Contra Costa County league and the confirmation that they will also have a team in the local city league was received with enthusiasm by followers of the sport this week.

The Clothiers will be represented by Baldwin, Bertone, Viano, Gillan, Westman, Pimm and Kenny. Kenny and Viano were with the Mastercraft Roofers last season, while the others played with the Connell Chevrolets.

Last season the Connell Chevrolets represented the city in the county league, but for some reason or other played all of their games away from home. It is not known whether things will be different this year. A meeting of the managers of the various teams in the loop will be held at Martinez some time next week and at that time this matter will come up for discussion.

The other day a letter came into this office from a fan in which it was his opinion that basketball in this city was poorly attended and that the following of the sport among the youthful fraternities was rather poor.

I can remember a few years ago when it was particularly difficult to find even standing room at a city league contest. Interest was of such a high fever that the teams fought tooth and nail to avoid having a defeat pinned on them.

The fan's opinion that the entrance of the Civilian Conservation Corp. team into the loop will serve to kindle a renewed spark into the league is fundamentally sound.

When the "Three Cs" are scheduled on the court they will be accompanied by truck loads of frenzied rooters. This will undoubtedly be the first and last time any team of this nature will enter a basketball team into a league representing a reforestation camp in this and any other locality.

Perhaps a touch of more intersectional rivalry can be made possible as a tonic for the spectators if Director Ivan Hill can lure a team from Crockett into the league.

Perhaps through "Major" Hill's untiring efforts a league representing this city can relieve some of its former glories, as this fan puts it.

For some time there was talk about the City Recreation sponsoring a basketball team in the City League but of late all reports to this effect have suddenly died out. George Flores was supposed to be the man behind this plan. Flores should have little difficulty rounding up some first-class talent.

The Johnson Clothiers meet the Crockett Eagles and the Martinez Ducks away from home November 28th and 29th.

Jury Acquits
Assailants Of Warburton

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.—UP—It took a superior court jury less than an hour to acquit Martin Block and Russell Brown of charges they robbed John Warburton and blacked his eye as an aftermath to a lover's quarrel with his former sweetheart, Alice White.

Although the defendants reportedly told the Grand Jury they were hired by Sidney Bartlett, Miss White's fiancé, to attack Warburton because he had slapped the actress, their story was revised when related to the trial jury. Brown testified he struck Warburton because he heard the actor was courting his sister and "had made a habit of slapping women."

Governor Is Made
Object Of Plots

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 22.—The office of Governor H. G. Kump reported today that an attempt has been made to extort $100,000 from the state's chief executive. Several days ago Governor Kump received a letter demanding $100,000 in bills be delivered by two uniformed state policemen to the clerk of a Charleston hotel. A package was left but the policemen to carry off the money no one called for it.

Dissension In Farmers Meet
Ends in Fight

OMAHA, Neb., 22.—UP—Dissension in the National Convention of the Farmers Union led to physical combat here tonight when John A. Simpson, of Oklahoma, president of the Union, allegedly struck A. W. Ricker, St. Paul editor, on the side of the head.

The affair was ended by Mrs. Simpson who stepped between the two men. It was reported by witnesses.

In a statement to newspapers it was said Ricker, editor, had charged that Simpson was fighting the Roosevelt administration because he was disgruntled because he was not named secretary of agriculture.

Rain Halts Big
N. C. Forest Fire

SYLVIA, N. C., Nov. 22.—Long-awaited rain today had brought rest to hundreds of volunteer fire fighters battling forest fires along a five-county front in the timberlands of western North Carolina.

In some areas, the downpour quenched the conflagration altogether, while in others it enabled the fighters to control the blazes. The fires had raged for a week.

KILLING WAS ACCIDENTAL CLAIM MADE

SANTA CRUZ, Nov. 22.—UP—Frieda Wilhelmina Weltz could not have shot Francis J. M. Grace wealthy shipper, intentionally because the bullet wound that killed him September 9 ranged upward, Defense Attorney John Duggan argued in her murder trial today.

The former Pennsylvania world war nurse pleaded in her own defense that she went to Grace with the intention of committing suicide. She charged he drugged her and attacked her while she was in his employ.

Duggan, who came here from Philadelphia to defend the 43-year-old woman, for the first time offered a definite contradiction of District Attorney J. F. Murphy's assertion that the killing was deliberately planned.

Duggan mentioned testimony of autopsy surgeons that the bullet wound started near Grace's hip and ranged upward toward his chest.

"It is conclusive proof that the gun was accidentally discharged," he declared.

It was argued that she was removing the gun from her handbag to shoot herself when it was fired.

Duggan also argued that had Miss Weltz intended to kill Grace she had many earlier opportunities.

Attorney Duggan also claimed that Miss Weltz's story was completely corroborated by the testimony of Mrs. Richard Frank, wife of the Grace household butler.

Mrs. Frank testified that Grace told her he was in "serious trouble," that a woman of good reputation was to become a mother by him.

Stanford Smith, Santa Cruz attorney, closed the defense by attacking the testimony of Sheriff A. T. Dresser and Deputy George Brereton that Miss Weltz appeared "normal" after her arrest. He cited the statements of Mrs. J. D. Kenney, jail matron, that the nurse was dazed from effects of an overdose of sleeping potion taken after the shot was fired.

District Attorney Murphy will close with a rebuttal argument tomorrow morning and the case was expected to reach the jury before noon.

Farmers Urged to Adopt Big Embargo

OMAHA, Neb. Nov. 21.—Five hundred farmers' delegates to the National Farmers' Union convention, heard Gov. William Langer of North Dakota urge them to demand the farm produce embargo proclamation from their State governors in preference to picketing highways. He advised the farmers that by so doing they "avoid taking into your own hands those measures which it is the duty of the governing bodies to act upon."

Rum Runner's Death Was Due to Gangsters

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—UP—A belief that eastern gangsters killed the man whose body was found on Skyline boulevard Sunday was expressed by police tonight when he was almost positively identified as Sam Dougherty, an eastern rum runner.

Police Chief Joseph A. Lastranga of Philadelphia, wired the identification after receiving fingerprints of the man.

Dougherty was notorious in liquor circles of Philadelphia and New York, police learned. He was believed to have fled and to have lived in Los Angeles and Reno before coming here.

Woman Will Escape Murder Prosecution

FEA CHATTER
J. P. Morgan was represented as anxious to persuade Roosevelt to take advantage of the Federal Reserve's power to buy in government bonds instead of issuing greenbacks. That he even got a chance to express this idea is doubtful. The President kept him engaged in pleasant tea-table chatter.

Roosevelt has not made up his mind regarding greenbacks. But he does not blanch at the thought of inflation. As a matter of fact, the country has already seen a lot of inflation. The purchase of gold through the issue of R. F. C. debentures is nothing less than inflation. The debentures are another form of paper money.

Roosevelt has intimated to his friends that he is not worried about the $700,000,000 bond issue due December 15. People have to invest in government bonds, he thinks, because there is little else for them to invest in.

The chief goal the President has ahead of him is the return of the dollar to its 1926 purchasing power, and to keep it there for a generation. In talking with his advisers, this is the object which he always comes back to. The latter say that no matter how many Morgans and Baruchs call on him, he will not take his eyes off that goal.

"I suppose, Jim, that when you get over there you'll look up your family genealogy," the friend suggested.

When and if Congress decides to poke its nose into the dynamic question of Public Works, one question it will want to air is the part played by Ebert K. Burlew in the Public Works deal.

Burlew came into the Interior Department as a Republican, served without interruption under various Republican secretaries, but despite a deluge of criticism against him, has been one of the key men in the Democratic Public Works Administration.

If Congress digs into the matter deeply enough it will discover the reason why. The fact is that without Burlew, Public Works would be a mere dream.

NRA CODES ARE BEING VIOLATED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—UP—A double barreled effort to obtain more rigid compliance of NRA codes was opened tonight by leaders of the recovery administration.

From administrator Hugh Johnson came the warning that the government would step in and enforce codes in industries unable to do so. He will, however, give industry every opportunity to obtain compliance to its code before the administration intervenes.

Oil administrator Harold Ickes announced the creation of an expert legal division to enforce the petroleum code, especially those provisions affecting production and marketing.

"Enforcement will be actively prosecuted in the courts when necessary," Ickes said.

Johnson admittedly is concerned over reports of wholesale violation of codes and the spirit of the president's reemployment agreements. Upon his return from a recent speaking tour through the middle and southwestern states he said compliance conditions were "bad" and went at once to discuss the situation with President Roosevelt at the White House.

He will discuss this and other phases of the recovery program at Warm Springs, Ga., with Mr. Roosevelt next week. Pending this visit, Johnson said today that while the recovery act requires that industry be allowed to administer its own code, as far as possible, the ultimate responsibility therefore lies with the NRA.

"The NRA will supervise code administration by their nature, the government should perform directly," he said. "In addition, it will directly administer the code itself wherever an industry is unable to administer it, fails to administer it, or where there are certain functions of code administration which, by their nature, the government should perform directly."

WHAT are the PURCHASING AGENTS DOING?

EVERY big company has one or more men whose entire time is devoted to buying the things which that company needs.

These men are specialists. It is their business to know prices . . . materials . . . sources of supply . . . present and future trends. They are the shrewdest, canniest buyers in the world.

But ALL of us, in a small way, are purchasing agents. We HAVE to buy a certain number of things, if only to keep alive. And most of us aren't very skillful at it. We waste a lot of money. We miss the good bargains. In fact, we could learn a great deal by watching a professional buyer at his work.

At this time, especially, it may be helpful to know what the big purchasing agents are doing. Are they cutting down? Are they opening up? Do they think this is a good time to buy or a bad time? What do they think about the future?

Well, the answer is that they are all buying as fast as they can buy.

And they are buying because THEY KNOW THAT PRICES ARE GOING UP.

"Pig iron has advanced 13 percent," the purchasing agent of a $20,000,000 corporation recently said. "Brass is up 42 1/2 percent. I am paying 41 percent more for lumber than I did in March, and fiber packing cases have doubled in price. In fact, everything we use in this business is costing us more today, and will in my opinion cost us still more tomorrow. I believe . . . that many commodities will be back to or near 1929 levels by spring."

That's the way the professional purchasing agents feel about it. And they KNOW. They have special sources of information. They are closely in touch with industry. They have studied the workings of the NRA codes.

PRICES ARE GOING UP. And it's a good thing for everyone. For things had come to the point where NOTHING had any true value. A man's time . . . his product . . .

his property . . . all had sunk so low in value that he couldn't even get a decent living.

That couldn't go on. So the Government set up the machinery of the NRA codes in order to MAKE EVERYTHING WORTH SOMETHING AGAIN.

This process is now under way. Wages are being raised. Commodities are bringing better prices every day. But it is not yet over. Before fair values . . . living values . . . can be reached, prices will have to go higher than they are now.

Before they do, take a leaf from the purchasing agent's book, and lay in a supply of the things you need. There are many good bargains still to be had. But these stocks are strictly limited. NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—When New York society comes to the aid of charity let it be said that there is nothing half-hearted in the demonstration. The New York Cancer Institute is one of its pet charities and when a benefit is given for that organization the creme de la creme turns out in all its glory.

At present the "how" is planning a gala "tropical ball" for this charity to be held a couple of weeks before Christmas. The entire ballroom suite has been engaged. Visitors will attend in tropical white, full dress. The room will be done in the atmosphere of the southern winter vacation-land. Painted backdrops representing Florida landscapes are already being built. A small grove of live, fruit-bearing orange trees, over 100 real palms and a miniature golf course will complete the scene. The men and women will wear dark make-up to give the effect of a deep tropical tan.

And to complete the seashore idea Florida sand will be served in the spinach.

Cheering Thought

This morning we scrapped the top-coat and wrapped the winter horseblanket around us. Winter is here and already we feel that annual creaking of the joints, that suggestion of lumbago, the wheezing cough and a definite dumbness from top to bottom.

It must be the merry-go-round existence of a columnist. We can't forget that haunting wisecrack of Heywood Brown about the life of a daily columnist.

"I was just up to the Old Men's Home," a friend told me, "and the officials told me that there isn't a single columnist in the place."

"Naturally," replied Heywood. "they don't live that long."

O. K. My Sweet

Over the bar the other night a man and wife in the last stages of sobriety and the last stages of wedded life were arguing about a divorce. The woman grieved her teeth and grabbed her spouse by the back.

"You'll pay alimony, biz boy," she yelled, "alimony, and plenty of it!"

"Shorry," blazed the man, "can't pay alimony, but I'll give you the best of references, my little cabbage."

The King Holds His Fars

Synthetic Britishers, the products of local dramatic schools, are a drug on the theatrical market. Juveniles, masters of ceremonies, et al., labor under the top-sidled illusion that a British accent is absolutely necessary for success behind the footlights. Even the chorus girl who contacts a "high class daddy" fancies an English accent is in order.

The result is a six weeks course

In elocution and eventually a queer patois which can't be understood anywhere in his Majesty's kingdom. It belongs nowhere. It comes not from England but from some brown stone studio in the Forties.

Consequently, it is amusing to listen to many of them under the stress of high emotion, extreme enthusiasm, inebriety or anger. In such situations they revert to type, prove themselves professional Britishers and have a devil of a time locating that lost accent. When their self-control and balance suddenly return they look sheepishly about them with an expression which seems to inquire, "You didn't notice it, did you?"

We know one young lady of the chorus who graduated after years in the back line into a minor bit in a British production. It was "I can't sing" and "I really can't sing" that it had a bit of the Boston Back Bay flavor, a suggestion of Cockney, a little Brooklyn, and a dash of repulse from Broadway.

A little bit under the influence one night she quarreled with her sweetheart. Her anger mounted higher and higher. The alcoholic juices fogged her brain, and she jumped from the table in a white rage.

"Listen, chiseler," she screamed, "pin back your ears, let down your hair and listen to me!"

From then on her accent throughout was as low as a field of yellow corn.

"Rasputin and the Empress" is based on an original story by Chas. MacArthur, well known for his work on "The Front Page," "Lulu Belle" and other stage and screen dramas.

HOW IT BEGAN

ROMANCE FOR TWO

by LAURA VITRAY

Jim Tibbett, go-getter young salesman and his pretty wife Mary have had their ups and downs since they came to New York to seek their fortune. Things were so bad for a time that they almost reached the breadline and as a matter of fact were forced to eat in free soup kitchens for a week. Then a particular piece of hard luck turned to good luck and Jim with the aid of Mary managed to skyrocket himself into a position as director in a large manufacturing concern. With a good job and salary at his disposal Jim invests in a piece of Long Island real estate and starts to build a home for his wife. But suddenly, a mysterious Mr. Switzer summons them into court, charging that their home is being built on his lot.

CHAPTER XXIV

ONE may only have trepassed with a little red ink on a piece of paper, but may find the results extremely embarrassing. So it was with Jim and Mary.

For a single red mark, inadvertently scratched on the map of the wholly suppositional town of Redwood, they found themselves faced with a court order to remove an English manor, nearing completion, to some spot where it would be less of an eyesore to one Harzin Switzer.

Although it stood on his plot, Mr. Switzer declined to accept the manor, even as a gift. He purposed to erect on that bit of reclaimed Long Island mud something reminiscent of his childhood on the banks of the Rhine.

The situation was rendered still more ironic when the real estate company, acting strictly under the terms of the contract, confiscated the Tibbetts' own plot because of their refusal to contribute to the building of the airport and clubhouse. This left them with the house on their hands, and no place to get it down.

It was at this point that Jim suddenly rose to the emergency with a vigor that astounded even Mary. Acting on the suggestion of a lawyer to whom he had sold some Vacuum stock, he spent a half hour in the comfy clerk's office looking up the incorporation papers of the real estate firm. They revealed Mr. Harzin Switzer as one of its officials, and the architect as still another.

"Mary," Jim declared that night, as they sat in their dismal 68th Street room talking it all over, "it began to look to me as if this whole thing was a frame-up. Probably they intend to work the same sort of scheme on a 'whole lot of boobies! But I'm going to get them!"

"What are you going to do, Jim?"

"I'm stumped. Not much! Just give me a little publicity. After all, this house out there belongs to me, and I can decorate it as I will even if I don't know what to do with it. So I'm going to have some large bright posters printed telling the whole tale. I'm going to waste them all over the place."

"We might get arrested, Jim!"

"Mary, we may go to jail any day for contempt of court for not erasing our house from the lot! So we may as well have a little fun!"

Jim lost no time in turning their English manor into a brilliant spectacle amid those mud banks. It drew a lot of sight-seers, and incidentally got plenty of space in New York newspapers.

The Tibbetts still had two days grace under the court order to remove their dwelling. Before the first day was up, Switzer himself called on them. He was in a conciliatory mood.

"But Jim was not."

"No, I prefer to make this a test case, and fight it out to the end," he told Switzer. "As public-minded citizen, I feel that's the only thing to do!"

ROMANCE FOR TWO

Switzer's heavy jaw set firmly. "Fight it out?" he repeated, with an ugly look. "Say, don't sit a neighbor with us, do you hear? We can show you a real fight!"

"That's what I hoped. There's no fun in fighting otherwise!"

The English manor made page one of the papers the following day. Meanwhile Jim reappeared before the judge, who did more than remind his order tossing the Tibbetts' house off Switzer's land. He handed down a decision that as the house was Jim's he might use it for any purpose he desired, and that since the lot beneath it belonged to the real estate firm, represented by Switzer, the latter might do with it as he liked—provided he did not trespass on Jim's home.

This sort of partnership of landowner and house-owner was original, unusual, but not without its advantages, at least so far as Jim was concerned. The removal of it carried his name all over the country, and linked with it the fame of the Perfect Vacuum Cleaner Corporation spread.

The land racketeers seemed to have gone into hiding. Nothing was heard of them or their mud bank developments for some time. Then one morning when Jim arrived at the Vacuum office, President Hawkins called him in. He was pale.

"Tibbett," he said, "it begins to look as if this fight of yours was going to wreck us!"

"What do you mean? I thought it had done us good?"

"Don't fool yourself. You can't do yourself or anyone else any good by getting into a fight with a crowd like that!"

"What's happened?"

"Plenty! Some of their henchmen backed a truck up to our yard, changed a few minutes ago, held the witchman at the point of a gun, and loaded several thousand dollars worth of vacuums. They left word they'd be back for more, and that if we notified the police they'd put you and me on the spot and blow the whole place up!"

"Holy smoke!"

"Yes, this has gone about far enough, young man! Now get out to that chateau of yours and pull down those posters!"

ITS hard to win a victory, and then see it snatched from you. Jim rode down in the elevator feeling decidedly blue.

But as he stepped from the elevator he glanced up at the wall charting directory on the wall chart just opposite. His eye lit on something that made him suddenly smile.

Hiram Jenkins. Theatrical Notes, 32nd Floor.

Jim whistled, stepped back into the elevator, and rode up. Happily, Jenkins was there. He recognized Jim by the pictures in all the papers.

"Howdy, James Tibbett," he said. "I didn't expect to have the honor. What's up? Going into vaudeville or something?"

Jim laughed.

"Not yet! Everyday life is lively enough!"

"Well, you're making real dough, Tibbett. I'm sure of that! You might do worse than invest in show business. Burlesque is paying good!"

"It wouldn't pay me. I'd lose my wife!"

"Musical comedy? Talkies?"

"Certainly not!"

"What then?"

Jim sat down on the edge of Jenkins' large flat top desk and leaned over to him confidentially.

"I'm starting a war! I need your help."

Jenkins only blinked as he feared his visitor might be mad. Jim elaborated the idea.

"A war on the racketeers that's going to be a good one. They'll naturally bring along their revolvers and machine guns. Those things make plenty of noise! Now, have you got to answer that?"

Jenkins stared at him—then roared.

"I get you! Just a minute—I can fix you up!"

(Continued from page 1) money we need for the rest of Richmond will have channels that will invite the largest steamers that sail in the Pacific, and they will be able to negotiate this harbor as easily as any harbor around the bay. He said the arrangement with the Dried Fruit Inc. by which that company moves its cargo over the local terminals means 60,000 tons of cargo a year and insures that Richmond will continue to have the regular steamer service which is so valuable for the port.

Knowland Sketched Conditions
"I pledge myself that no stone shall be left unturned to bring this city its rightful share of commerce and industrial development," he said.

Knowland was introduced by Thomas M. Carlson, and sketched a picture of rapidly improving conditions throughout the state, with northern California getting its full share of the current prosperity. He said repeal of prohibition will mean big things for northern California, which produces all of the wine of the state, and that this state is by far the largest wine-producing state in the country.

State Is Profiting
"California is profiting from the higher prices paid for gold," he said. "Between 3000 and 5000 new men have gone to work and many old mines which could not be worked have been reopened since the President's new gold buying plan became operative. There has been a tremendous increase in building over the months of last spring, and the government has appropriated $621,000,000 for public works in this state. Northern California is getting its share through public buildings, roads and the two great bridges across the bay, and southern California is being financed for its water project. We are going to ask for another $15,000,000 to put the electric trains on the bridge."

Warning Note Issued
"However, a note of warning is in order. While these vast expenditures of public funds are necessary, and while they put large numbers of men to work and help to restore improved conditions, we must not sit back and depend forever upon the government to carry us. We must not lose our initiative. The government can not furnish us all the our natural resources, and it might be well to keep in mind that this money will some day have to be paid back. And it will have to come from those who pay taxes."

Directors Nominated
Terms of seven directors are expiring this year, and nominations were made from the floor for the coming election. The men whose terms are expiring are T. Emmett Ward, Aubrey Wilson, Fred Caudle, E. M. Dowder, Henry A. Johnston, C. S. Renwick and P. M. Sanford. These were renominated and in addition Otto Ludewig, Clarence Bullwinkel, Joseph H. Miller, an William Dayton were placed in the race.

COMPLAINTS ARE FILED IN HART DEATH

SAN JOSE, Nov. 22.—UP—Complaints charging John M. Holmes, 29, and Thomas H. Thurmond, 28, with the kidnapping of Brooke L. Hart, 22, were filed in Justice Court here late today by Sheriff William Emig.

County authorities thus moved swiftly to prosecute the pair under the state kidnapping law, which provides a death penalty, after Federal authorities acted in the case.

A Federal Grand Jury at San Francisco a short time earlier had indicted Holmes and Thurmond on seven counts, conviction on all of which would result in sentences of 122 years each in prison and payment of fines totaling $40,000. That sum, incidentally, was demanded by the kidnapers from Hart's wealthy relatives here after the body was believed thrown in San Francisco bay.

It was believed the federal indictments would serve as a "double check" to assure that the admitted kidnaper-slayers did not escape punishment. No announcement of prosecution plans were made by Federal officials.

Three of the federal indictments involved mailing letters demanding ransom. Three charged mailing letters threatening bodily harm. The seventh charged conspiracy and included "other persons unknown to this jury."

Sheriff Emig was to go to San Francisco tonight to get the prisoners. Under the law, they must be brought here when complaints are filed against them. The cases will go before a Santa Clara county grand jury soon.

"I have a plentiful supply of tear gas in the event of trouble, when the pair is brought here," said Sheriff Emig.

The men were held at San Francisco since they confessed slaying the Santa Clara university graduate, because of public indignation here and the reported formation of a "vigilante" group pledged to secure "swift justice."

The complaints here were in the court of Justice C. H. Moore. They charged kidnapping with violence, punishable under state law with death or life imprisonment without benefit of parole.

The search for Hart's body near the San Mateo bridge received added impetus. The 12th Naval District headquarters announced that Washington had authorized a motor launch to aid in the search. Congresswoman Florence Kahn made the request.

Woman Given Sentence For Pot Shooting

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—UP—Mrs. Honore Bowly-Gledhill, daughter of English nobility and proprietor of the Dead Fish cafe in the midst of the Telegraph Hill artist colony, was given a 30-day suspended sentence today for taking pot-shots at Colt Memorial tower, much criticized by the colonists.

She was charged with possession of firearms. Mrs. Bowly-Gledhill's attorney pleaded that she did not actually fire a .22 pistol at the Colt tower the other night.

He argued, however, that Telegraph Hill artists would be overjoyed if Mrs. Bowly-Gledhill, standing in the street before her cafe after a lively evening, had used a siege gun on the "Silo."

Meanwhile, neighboring Nob Hill, swanky residential section, likewise had its troubles. Startled homeowners told police that a six-foot snake and an octopus were running loose on their lawns.

Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health officer, learned that a show owner's pets were slipping in and out of their basement quarters at disconcerting intervals to take sun baths.

The case was closed when the owner said he would deny his pets the sun.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY IN OWL CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—UP—

The Owl Drug company broke $5,000,000 worth of "onerous" property leases and wiped $6,000,000 worth of preferred stock off its books by bankruptcy proceedings, according to testimony today before a special senate committee investigating receiverships.

Judge Frank H. Norcross of Nevada, who is awaiting confirmation to the U. S. circuit court of appeals, upheld his action in removing Miss Felice Cohn as federal referee in charge of the Owl bankruptcy.

He deplored the fact that although the Owl company owns no property in Nevada, the firm was entitled to be adjudged a bankrupt in his court at Carson City because the firm was incorporated in that state.

Bertram H. Ross, acting as attorney for 1000 Owl creditors, testified that Judge Norcross refused to transfer the bankruptcy to San Francisco, despite a showing that his court could subpoena no witnesses in Nevada and that creditors would be at great expense to press their claims there. He said court precedents called for the transfer.

Following Judge Norcross' admission that breaking of "onerous leases" was one of the reasons for the Owl bankruptcy, the stock loss admission came from George K. Edler, accountant for the closed Wingfield banks in Nevada. Edler was appointed trustee of the Owl firm by Judge Norcross.

"Holders of preferred stock got nothing," Edler admitted. "It was just too bad for them."

Edler was asked if he would have wiped out the Owl preferred stockholders had he not been bolstered in such action by court orders.

"I wasn't a party to the bankruptcy," he replied. "I didn't rob the creditors. I don't know who did. If I did, I'd be glad to tell you."

He said that thousands of stockholders had originally paid par to the company for the $6,000,000 in eight-percent cumulative preferred stock that was wiped out.

The $4,000,000 in Owl common stock was owned nearly entirely by Drug, Inc., parent company of Owl, which in turn bought back the $8,000,000 assets of Owl for $1,550,000 through a subsidiary, the Union Holding Co., Edler testified.

"Owl and the holding company that purchased it were like brothers—both controlled by Drug, Inc.," testified Edler.

Senator Felix Hebert, committee member, said: "The same management remained in charge of the 110 drug stores in the chain—all that bankruptcy did was to wipe out Owl's onerous leases and $6,000,000 in preferred stock."

"That's about the story," said Edler.

"Is it not true," asked Senator Austin, "that several of the executives of Owl held large blocks of preferred stock and boomed the shares up, unloading at $106 a share on their friends?"

Edler said he did not know.

BIG PROFITS ARE BARED BY S. DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—UP—R. Sterling Dollar, who heads the great Dollar shipping empire founded by his father, told the Senate committee investigating ocean and air mail contracts today that he had received large commissions for acquiring vessels for the Dollar lines from the United States Shipping Board.

Dollar testified he received $192,000 in negotiating in 1924 the purchase of seven government owned ships for use in the Dollar lines' around the world service. He said he received $281,000 in 1926 for purchasing five ships for the Pacific Orient service.

He described under questioning by Chairman Black the formation of two syndicates to underwrite the transactions. Leading west coast citizens were members, and reaped profits.

The first syndicate realized a profit of $7,000,000, Chairman Black said.

Dollar said the syndicate was formed because it appeared the line might prove a losing venture. Each member pledged his financial aid should it be needed, and agreed to buy stock in a company to operate the lines. Dollar testified. The project proved a success and the stock was paid for from the profits.

This syndicate agreed to finance the "President" line of vessels.

Stockholders of the Dollar lines approved the transfer of stock to the syndicate December 8, 1924. Black brought out Dollar testified that up until that time the world service showed only losses, but beginning in 1924, the service began to show a profit and at the end of 1925 reported an income for tax purposes of $1,004,000.

The second syndicate for the purchase of five vessels included Herbert and Mortimer Fleishacker,

RELATIVES ARE HELD IN WIFE DEATH

relatives and members of her household were taken into custody for questioning.

One theory advanced by police was that a drug addict broke into the home in search of drugs, overpowered Mrs. Wynkoop, chloroformed her, undressed her, laid her on the operating table and shot her. Another theory was that she took the anaesthetic voluntarily, then was shot.

Mrs. Wynkoop, whose father, B. H. Gardner, said he had opposed his daughter's marriage and that she had been "abducted" by the Wynkoop family, last was seen alive at 3 o'clock yesterday by a neighbor. Her body was found at 8:30 by Dr. Wynkoop. The death was reported to police at 10 p.m. by an undertaker.

Police found the body on the left side. A cotton undershirt was pulled down to the waist but had not been pierced by the bullet. A blanket and a slip covered the rest of the body. Other clothing was at the foot of the table. The revolver wrapped in gauze and without fingerprints, was on the table, near a bottle of chloroform. Three bullets had been fired from the gun. One was fired weeks ago, accidentally. A second was in the girl's body. No trace was found of the third.

Persons questioned besides Dr. Wynkoop were a daughter, Dr. Catharine Wynkoop, 24, a son, Walker Wynkoop; Miss Enid Hennessey, a teacher who lived in the Wynkoop home; Mrs. Harvey Woods, Miss Frances Woods, and Miss Jessie Woods, all relatives of Juliet, Ill.

Mrs. Wynkoop's husband, Earle, 27, was located today in Kansas City. An aviator, he was employed until recently at the world's fair.
